

Area civic leader dies

GRANITE CITY — One of this community's most respected leaders, L. H. Karandjeff, 92, died at 3:30 p.m. Friday at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Known for his role in social and business enterprises, Mr. Karandjeff had been recognized many times for his accomplishments in both fields.

He was a bank officer here for the past 69 years. At the time of his death, he was chairman and president of American Heritage Bank and honorary chairman of Central Bank, formerly the Granite City Trust and Savings.

AMONG THOSE who knew him well was Boy Scout Executive Bill Monical, who praised his dedication to that organization. In addition to being assistant scoutmaster in 1925, Mr. Karandjeff served as the Scout Council's first chairman and had been on the board since 1941.

"We would have never had Camp Sunnen if it had not been for Mr. Karandjeff," Monical said.

In 1950, said Monical, the late Joseph H. Monical granted permission for the local Boy Scouts to use some of his property near Potosi, Mo., providing the Scouts maintained it.

"Some 20 years ago by and Mr. Karandjeff, he had the camp all the way down the line. He never gave up" and the Scout Council was given title as owner of the camp, Monical said.

Mr. Karandjeff's name is on a campsite in Camp Sunnen. Monical said, but the name should be known they were going. He wanted to know if they'd "gone over the top."

HELPING OTHERS was part of Mr. Karandjeff's nature, said Barry Loman, vice president of Central Bank. So was hard work.

"He was self-made and very outstanding," Loman said. "He came here when he was about a 15-year-old boy, from Europe. He didn't go to high school, didn't go to college. He just took special banking course and the rest is history."

Shock at learning of the death was expressed by another of his long-time employees, John Polson, vice president in the consumer loan department for Central Bank.

"I thought he was indestructible," Polson said. Though having been hospitalized several times, Mr. Karandjeff always seemed able to bounce back and it is hard to accept his passing, Polson said.

HE DESCRIBED his former boss as a "people person" who tried to pass the concept on to the employees.

"He knew people by their first names," Polson said. "He taught us how to know people by their first names."

His friendliness, particularly in the early days, helped build business that lasts today for him, he said.

He is a super conductor to social services throughout the area," said Janet Quarton, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

His generosity to social services is shown by his concern for the successful 1985 United Way campaign.

GC rejects cable TV increase

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH

GRANITE CITY — The rejection of an increase in the cost of basic cable service may backfire on the City Council.

Although the council turned down a 12½ percent increase on basic cable, a 5 percent increase will be instituted on Jan. 1 and increases may also be made on premium channel services.

The 5 percent, or 42 cents, is allowed because of the 1984 Cable Television Act, which allows the cable company to raise basic rates 5 percent each year without council approval.

THE COUNCIL WILL LOSE all control of the basic cable rates at the end of December 1986.

William Rougley, general manager of South-Western Cable-TV Inc., the cable company, requested the increase in the basic cable rate to make the price of the service more compatible with the costs of the service.

Because of the higher basic costs, the company offered reduced prices for users taking the basic plus the Disney Channel or the basic plus two or more premium stations.

The prices for Showtime and the Movie Channel would not be reduced.

Pontoon Beach also turns down rate hike

PONTOON BEACH — South-Western Cable TV Ltd. General Manager William Rougley didn't have much luck with his rate increase request in Pontoon Beach Thursday.

The Pontoon Beach Village Board of Trustees denied the request just prior to Rougley's appearance in Granite City.

HOWEVER, basic monthly rates can increase from $8.40 to $8.82 because the Cable Telecommunications Act of 1984 allows the company to raise basic rates 5 percent each year without village board approval.

South-Western Cable may also increase its rates for premium programs without board approval, Rougley said after the denial.

Rougley added the discount would mean even larger savings for Rougley asked the board for a 12½ percent increase in basic rates, bringing them to $9.45 a month ($4.75 for senior citizens). That rate, he said, would be the same rate South-Western Cable is charging in other cities.

"IN FACT, many of your citizens will actually see their total cable TV bill go down," he said. "Because of our drastic reductions in the charges for movie services when taken in combination, additional sets, cordless remote controls and the Disney Channel," Rougley said.

The company is also working on reception problems, Rougley said, noting a decline in the number of service calls received.

"I DON'T MAKE service calls," trustee Linda Schutte said. "After the storm leaves or the wind quits blowing, I know if it (the reception) will come back."

Whitell also suggested cancelling some of the programming.

"Cut some of the programs nobody watches anyhow," he said.

and Entertainment, WGN, WTBS and CNN Headline News will amount to more than $108,000, he said.

ALSO, labor, utilities and supply costs are increasing, Rougley said. "We feel the $4.75 is a level we are going to be at business at a fair rate," Rougley said.

4th Ward seat taken by Alderman Hewlett

GRANITE CITY — A new 4th Ward alderman was appointed by Mayor Von Dee Cruise Thursday night.

John Hewlett of 3149 Yale Drive was approved as the replacement for Phil Miller. Miller resigned the previous week to take a position at the city's sewage treatment plant.

Hewlett, 36, served as a member of the city's Park Commission for the past four months prior to his appointment. He did not hold any other city posts.

THE NEW ALDERMAN said he was surprised when Cruise called him about accepting the position.

"This (serving as alderman) was not something I had been contemplating at all," he said. "But I thought maybe it was something I ought to do."

Hewlett said he wants to "work together" with other City Council members to help improve the city as a whole.

"GRANITE CITY is a lot like St. Louis was about 10 or 15 years ago," he said. "After a lot of hard work, St. Louis is now getting recognition and a better image nationally."

"Granite City also has a lot of potential — but its image needs to be improved."

TOM HEWLETT

Hewlett, born in Terre Haute, Ind., moved to this city with his family when he was in grade school.

HE RECEIVED a bachelor of science degree from Indiana State University and a master's degree from the College of Agriculture and Natural Sciences at Michigan State University.

After he received his master's degree, Hewlett took a job with the Army Corps of Engineers. He is still employed by the corps, working in the planning and control function of the real estate division.

$9 million plant planned

By SUSAN SIGNAIGO-WEICH

GRANITE CITY — A plan to construct a $9 million industrial plant recently came one step closer to reality Thursday night.

Eticam Inc. of Warwick, R.I., should be in operation within the next year, if things go as scheduled.

THE CITY COUNCIL approved a resolution to execute the documents and issue up to $9 million in industrial revenue bonds for the project.

The actual issuance of the bonds will be made at the next meeting, said Mark Goldenberg, city attorney.

The resolution passed stipulates that the construction of the project be started by June 1, 1986, and that the plant request annexation into the city by that date.

IF THE CONDITIONS aren't met, the city is to be given $57,000 by Eticam.

Over $8 million in bonds to be issued, $3.4 million originated from the city. An additional $5.1 million was reallocated to the city from Alton.

The Rhode Island company has expansions underway in Nevada and northern Illinois.

LOCALLY, it has an option on 6.6 acres of land about two miles south of Heidman Steel, on Illinois Route 3.

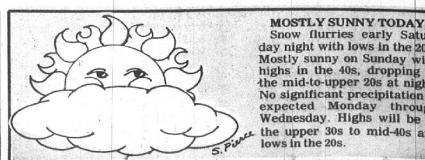

The plant expansion should bring 100 to 150 immediate job openings. The number of jobs should increase to 225 by the plant's fifth year of operation, officials said.

Rhode Island company extracts copper, nickel, chrome and precious metals from wastewater for resale purposes. The metals are resold to the jewelry or electronics industry.

THE COMPANY WILL provide services to companies that produce industrial wastewater, such as electroplaters and picklers.

Local officials traveled to the Eticam plant this month and were impressed by the plant's cleanliness.

After the bonds are issued, the plant will have to undergo a permit process with the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency before construction can begin.

Collateral auction

WASHINGTON — While you were shopping around for offbeat Christmas gifts for those hard-to-please relatives, chances are you didn't stop in at your friendly neighborhood office of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

The FDIC is not competing with Neiman-Marcus or Bloomingdale's, and it's not likely to take out an ad in the department store section of the Yellow Pages. But with banks failing at a historic rate, the government insurance agency has come to the rescue of some of your favorite franchises.

The material was put up as collateral for loans given by banks that later went belly-up. When the FDIC seized the failed bank, it can't pay depositors on insured accounts, so it fell heir to the crazy collateral.

In the past, the FDIC has acquired and peddled such unusual items as an Oklahoma bank's collection of "Pony Hooker," an antique Koran and a Texas house of ill repute. The agency also owned a herd of Buffalo in Kansas but couldn't sell them because they were sick and had to be destroyed by the Agriculture Department. "They shot our collateral," mourned an FDIC official to one associate.

But there are still plenty of bizarre bargains in the FDIC's inventory. Are you interested in unique forms of transportation? The FDIC offers a sunken tugboat, a car that can't be driven, a herd of cattle mired in the mud at the bottom of a river, but the agency will locate it for you if you'll take it "as is." The bank regulators also will let you peddle a Rolls-Royce with a cracked block now sitting in Midland, Texas.

Real estate interests? How about a 40-acre gravel pit in Oregon? That's what the FDIC has for $55,000, mainly because 70 percent of the pit is under water. There's also an abandoned gold mine in Wadapai, Arizona with a caretaker who probably likes to sit in a squat chair and take potshots at trespassers, so you might want to buy this one for the in-laws.

For the collector, the FDIC offers Gen. George S. Patton's saddle, confiscated by Siting Bull at the Battle of the Little Big Horn, plastic glasses with a bankrupt bank's name embossed on them, and a set of commemorative gold coins valued at $2 million.

bargains when they shop at the FDIC. Would you believe:

A hundred bird dogs? The regulators obtained these from a failed Kansas bank and are tired of feeding them.

A hundred pairs of parakeets? An Oklahoma bank got stuck with them before it folded, and the FDIC is running out of newspaper, so please hurry.

A horse with venereal disease? An Oklahoma bank, the Penn Square National Bank, which collapsed in July 1982. The FDIC has auctioned off $1 million worth of horse flesh that was owned by Penn Square, but the sick one hasn't found a home.

Twenty-five thousand pounds of frozen rabbit? A California bank ended up in the stew after it forced itself to be taken over by the FDIC. The bank's owners were so far from this one, a food firm has indicated it might want the rabbit meat to process into dog food.

UNDER THE DOME: It has nine years in the United States Senate, Montana Democrat John Melson is telling his colleagues in the Senate that he's been mired in the mud at the bottom of a river, but the agency will locate it for you if you'll take it "as is." The bank regulators also will let you peddle a Rolls-Royce with a cracked block now sitting in Midland, Texas.

Count your blessings

Christmas and the New Year provide a time to count our blessings, to express our thanks, and to give thanks to our neighbors, to individuals, as families, and as a community. We are all working together.

As a community in the City of Madison we have been active during 1984 to bring about improvements.

We added 23 new businesses. We are working to upgrade our city's street department, including the building and equipment. Our police department has organized a auxiliary police unit and a canine unit.

Relationships with surrounding governments are at their best. All of these governments are working together and with the private sector to make a better community — a better place to live.

There is certainly a great deal yet to be accomplished and, through the dedication of many, it can be and it will be done.

Let this holiday season be a time we as individuals, as families, and as a community restate our commitment to each other for the coming year.

May this holiday season also be a joyous time for all.

As mayor I extend the best wishes of the entire administration of the City of Madison.

Hewlett a good choice

Taking the high road is seldom seen in politics. But Mayor Von Dee Cruse walked that road at Thursday's City Council meeting.

Rather than appoint a political ally to fulfill the vacant seat left by former Alderman Phil Miller, Cruse gave the nod to a man relatively new to public service, Tom Hewlett.

From what we've seen of Hewlett, he's an articulate, level-headed person. Notably, he has led opposition to the Aldi Store at the Fehling Road curve. He did so without rancor. He displayed an understanding of the city's economic concerns versus concerns of Fehling Road area homeowners.

In addition, Hewlett is employed by the Army Corps of Engineers in its real estate division. His experience could prove helpful in examining future city plans for new land development.

According to Hewlett's background is his past membership in the city's Plan Commission for eight months.

Hewlett seems to be the type of man who'll vote his conscience rather than jump when someone pulls a string. That's a credit to Hewlett. And to Cruse.

9% gas rate cut is welcome

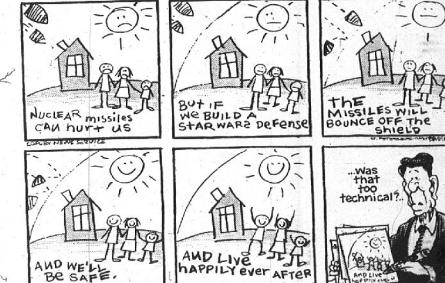

To the Editor:

Several weeks ago, the Illinois Citizens Utility Board sent me a fact sheet on the comparative rates of the Illinois Utility companies for 1984. On that list, Illinois Power ranked 4th from the bottom in electric rates out of 10 companies statewide and Union Electric ranked 9th or the second lowest.

On the matter of rates for natural gas, however, IP ranked second highest out of 15 utilities in the state.

So, while we welcome IP's announced cut of a 9 percent drop in natural gas rates, the effect will be something like the feeling one gets when he stops banging his head up against the wall.

It will feel good to have a slight

Susanne Indelicato

I'm no smarter than my husband, but I'm a lot better educated. I say that not to pat myself on the back, but to praise my teachers, my high school and my school district administrators.

My high school graduation class numbered 500. My husband's class numbered almost 600.

I did well in college, which is where I met my husband. Meanwhile, he struggled with his classes and his instructors.

We often discussed why I could exceed while he lagged behind. We agreed it was because I knew how to pay attention and how to study. The smaller classes at my high school had made it easier for me.

But my husband's high school classes were overpriced and experimental. There were no walls between classes, only partitions, making it easier to enlarge or decrease the size of the classrooms. But that made it harder on the students, who could hear everything that was going on in classes around them.

My husband's teachers were so overworked, so burdened, with students that many times they were unable to help students who were failing behind. And when he could catch up, without their absence being noticed, my husband told me,

My husband didn't enjoy reading books, a vital asset in college, while I spent all my free reading time. His high school teachers didn't encourage him to read, he says. In fact, test material was outlined in class.

My husband was not the only student I met who was unprepared for college.

While I was a freshman in college, two of my roommates, from a large school district in St. Louis, were having problems with required college-level subjects such as math, English and science. I would regularly help one with her geography homework.

I once asked her why she had never learned the seven continents and where Paris, Barcelona or Alexander the Great were. She said, "We took ballet and abstract art analysis."

"We didn't take classes like these in high school," she said. "We took ballet and abstract art analysis."

My husband's teachers were so overworked, so burdened, with students that many times they were unable to help students who were failing behind. And when he could catch up, without their absence being noticed, my husband told me,

"Newsroom."

"Hello, I was wondering if you were busy right now."

"No, I'm certain you'll enjoy the luncheon speaker. He's nationally known — Clarence Cuckoo Culpeper."

"Sorry, name's new to me."

"Anyway, this is a really big event. Everybody in bird-dom will be there."

The reporter stared nervously at to think I'm a turkey." The reporter tried to clear his throat.

"There won't even a chuckle at the other end of the line."

The reporter hurriedly got out his notebook and opened it to the following week. "When is it? I'll pencil it in."

"Why, it's going on today — right now over at the Right Wingers' Bird Nest."

The stunned reporter dropped his banana. "To-to..."

"No, no, no. The call of the Tetra-Sapper is more like ta-ta-ta-ta-ta-ta."

"Today?" The reporter blurted.

"Why, uh, yes. Right now."

"But, but, but..."

"Oh you really must work on those calls. The Nearights Wingwhipper's call is more, bu-t-t-t-t-t."

You know, with your interest I can tell you're really going to enjoy this. We'll be waiting for you."

Before an argument could be mounted, the man hung up.

The reporter grabbed a camera and hurriedly strapped it on. About that time the editor walked in, the two faced each other, tension mounted, a shoutout was coming.

newspaper dove under their desks.

The reporter fired first. "Can you play a game?" The man said and got it down to the composing room?

The editor was caught off guard.

"I guess so. Why? Where you going?"

The reporter shouted as he headed out the door. "Covering a bird story. Got to fly."

County board ousts its executive

The Madison County Housing Authority's board of commissioners last week declined to renew Bert Hampton's contract as executive director.

Linda Fulcher, who recently submitted her resignation as deputy director, was named acting executive director.

HAMPTON HAD BEEN executive director since Feb. 1.

Reeves, who was re-elected as chairman of the board of commissioners at Monday's annual meeting, declined Tuesday to discuss the board's reasons for not retaining Hampton.

Hoskin would say only the board's vote was unanimous. An employee of the housing authority said Hampton's departure may have been caused by "contractual difficulties" between the board and Hampton.

One of those difficulties may have been Hampton's failure to move to this county, as his contract stipulated.

HAMPTON LIVES in Belleville.

Commissioner Paul Bargiel would say only that Hampton's contract was not renewed for "the good of the authority."

Hampton, reached at Memorial Hospital in Belleville, where he was to undergo surgery on Tuesday, said he would speak with a reporter later.

Fulcher said the board did not act on her resignation as deputy director.

The resignation, she said, is moot in light of Hampton's departure.

Fulcher, who is also programs supervisor, submitted her resignation as deputy effective Nov. 18 but her reasons were never disclosed.

HOSKIN SAID the board will be holding a special session in the near future to discuss the executive's matters, but that no date has been set for initiating a search for a permanent executive director.

Fulcher said seeking the permanent position is not a consideration at this point.

She will be working to grasp the needs of the authority at this time. I have no other immediate plans," she said.

$TV Rates up

By RACHEL NEWSOME

VENICE — "We don't want to be one of the bad guys, but we can understand your situation," Mayor Tyrone Echols said, responding to a request for an 18 percent rate hike in the cost of basic cable television service.

William Rougley, South-Western Cable TV general manager, presented the proposal to the City Council at its meeting Monday night.

THE INCREASE is being sought because Venice's basic rate goes up each month in line with those charged in other communities, Rougley said.

Some of the aldermen reacted negatively to the proposal and a decision was delayed until the Jan. 7 council meeting.

South-Western Cable may increase its basic rate only 5 percent without council approval, but may increase rates for premium channels without a limit.

If APPROVED, the proposal would increase the basic rate for cable service to $39.45 monthly.

In seeking to justify the request, Rougley said the company has improved customer service by providing longer office hours and telephone response hours and more customer service representatives.

The result has been fewer service calls being required by customers, he said.

INCREASED EMPHASIS on preventive maintenance, with fewer outages being experienced, also was cited by Rougley.

According to South-Western Cable, costs of providing basic cable programming are growing.

He said expenses involved in the basic channels, such as C-SPAN, USA, ESPN, Arts and Entertainment, WGN, WTBS and CNN, are rising by more than $108,000.

CUSTOMERS TAKING the proposal into account and demanding more would find their monthly cost reduced by $1.25 under the proposal and charges on second sets also would be reduced.

For a customer taking all services, the present monthly cost of $75.50 per month, which includes a second set, would be cut to $32.95.

Attorneys debate oil site

EDWARDSVILLE — Attorneys for parties in a lawsuit involving Jerry Russell Bliss Inc. still have not struck an agreement on removal of wastes at sites in Venice.

On Thursday, they argued more motions in the case at a hearing in Madison County Circuit Court. Philip J. Rarick, chief judge of the 3rd Judicial Circuit, presided.

THE SUIT WAS FILED in July by the Illinois attorney general's office.

It claims storage tanks at 1226 Bissell St., Venice, contain wastes with ignitable and cancer-causing materials.

Bliss Inc. and GMI Corp. are defendants in the suit. Bliss Inc., which hauls waste oils, allegedly owned the tanks, or property owned by GMI.

On Thursday, Bliss attorney Thomas Immel argued that GMI acquired the tanks from the Bliss firm in 1983. He said Bliss had never added or removed materials from the tanks.

GMI HAS MAINTAINED that the Bliss firm owns the tanks. Both Bliss and GMI are Missouri corporations.

Assistant Attorney General James Morgan said before the hearing that his office is trying to reach an agreement with the defendants for removing the materials.

Also Thursday, Immel argued unsuccessfully that Bliss Inc. had not been properly notified of the pending lawsuit because a summons was sent to a former business address.

Rarick said he would enter an order instructing the firm to respond to the suit, which it so far has not formally acknowledged.

JOHN MALKOVICH, representing GMI, argued the suit should be dismissed because the attorney general's office is acting without proper authority.

He noted that the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency investigated the site in 1983 and did not take action. Under state statute, the attorney general's actions should be limited to controlling a situation until the IEPA can act, he said.

Bi-State's future foreseen as bright

A bright 1986 is foreseen for the Bi-State Development Agency by Carl E. Mathias of Granite City, board chairman of Bi-State and its acting administrator. He is assistant vice president of Granite City.

A trial downtown bus shuttle to a reduced fare zone will operate to move people between Union Station, St. Louis Centre, and other downtown and riverfront attractions.

The Transit Action Plan will concentrate on changes in the northern service area in Missouri. In Illinois, innovative approaches to transit service are being studied for possible implementation in 1986.

More bus-rides will begin operation and additional Call-a-Ride service is likely.

ABOUT 120 NEW BUSES will be ordered. The DeBaliviere Station Garage will be completed, as will the Gateway Arch parking facility.

Improvements will continue at St. Louis Downtown, Peoria Airport, Cahokia, including the probable start of lengthening of a 5,500-foot runway to 7,000 feet. In trash-to-energy, details leading up to construction should be completed, he said.

Mathias expects 1986 to be a year in which great strides are made by this agency toward fulfilling its role as a provider of transportation and a developer of activities valuable to the community.

Bus transportation will continue to improve, and light rail transit will bring a resurgence of interest in mass transit. Trash-to-energy will be a real boon to the area, and there are a number of other projects with great potential under way.

"WE ARE HERE to help, and that's exactly what we'll do in 1986."

In March 1985, bus routes were restructured and service improvements were made in the southwest portion of the Missouri service area. New direct routes included more direct routes to work, new park-ride facilities, new transfer centers, and a new Call-a-Ride demand response service.

Illinois received some restructuring of bus routes in Granite City and East St. Louis at the requests of the Madison County and St. Clair County transit districts. New bus shelters were installed at locations in both counties.

As a part of the result of this improvement, ridership was up over the previous year for the second year in a row. The more than 48 million passengers projected for this fiscal year are 2 percent more than the previous year.

MORE BUSES RECEIVED Bi-State Transit's "new look" paint scheme, hundreds of "Bus Start" signs replaced old bus stop signs, new electronic headsigns were installed on all buses, and route markers received new uniforms so that passengers in need of assistance may easily recognize them.

Bi-State transit received a national safety award for traffic and passenger safety from the American Public Transit Association.

The Transit Action Plan will concentrate on changes in the northern service area in Missouri. In Illinois, innovative approaches to transit service are being studied for possible implementation in 1986.

More bus-rides will begin operation and additional Call-a-Ride service is likely.

ABOUT 120 NEW BUSES will be ordered. The DeBaliviere Station Garage will be completed, as will the Gateway Arch parking facility.

Improvements will continue at St. Louis Downtown, Peoria Airport, Cahokia, including the probable start of lengthening of a 5,500-foot runway to 7,000 feet. In trash-to-energy, details leading up to construction should be completed, he said.

Mathias expects 1986 to be a year in which great strides are made by this agency toward fulfilling its role as a provider of transportation and a developer of activities valuable to the community.

Bus transportation will continue to improve, and light rail transit will bring a resurgence of interest in mass transit. Trash-to-energy will be a real boon to the area, and there are a number of other projects with great potential under way.

It's not a game to those who are there. But by making it a game, the Rev. Larry Rice and his wife, Penny, hope to educate people of all ages about the harsh realities of social and economic situations on what millions of homeless people experience every day.

The board game, called "Street Cycle," begins with players being made homeless by one of the many things that happen in real life, such as:

- Your husband leaves you and the kids and you can't pay the bills.
- Illness strikes; you lose your job, can't pay the rent and finally are evicted.

Haunted by bad memories of the war, you develop a serious alcohol problem, and wind up on the streets.

During the game, chance events keep the players moving either forward or backward, based on some of the realities:

- "People stare at you as you walk through the street with your belongings," for example, warrants a step back.
- "You are caught sleeping in the park after 11 p.m.," sends the player to jail, where a turn is lost.

But for every step backward there is the form of scripture verses and acts of good will.

A family opens its home to you for 1 week. Move ahead 3 spaces with your direction in your life.

But the biggest advances towards "hunger, god and little in-between" come when someone learns of God's love and how to be born again.

Rice, director of the New Life Evangelistic Center at 1411 Locust St., offers the same reality to the 100 to 150 homeless people he sees daily.

"And the problem, he says, is not unique to the city."

"Every night of the people downtown (at the New Life shelter) come from St. Louis County," he says.

The problem in the county, he says, is a lack of shelter. For the 100 to 150 homeless people he sees daily, Rice says, "You help another homeless person find the nearest soup kitchen" earns the player another turn.

But the biggest advances towards "hunger, god and little in-between" come when someone learns of God's love and how to be born again.

That combines with "spiritual poverty," a fear of being poor" to close doors.

Rice is not alone in his concern for spending millions of dollars on development, only to cause the displacement of the poor. He also denounces county municipalities for levying a "highly discriminatory" 5 percent utilities tax on people who can barely afford utility bills.

"It doesn't take much to push a person over the edge," he says.

A chance to really understand the plight of the poor will be offered Christmas Day at Cervantes Convention Center, where thousands of poor and homeless people are expected to gather for a message of hope, Rice says.

"We're putting out a call for 10,000 new toys," he says. "Street Cycle can be obtained by writing the New Life Evangelistic Center at 1411 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo. 63103."

While you are walking down the street at night, shivering from the cold, a car passes by.

You are turned down by an employer because your clothing is ragged and you had a shower for a week -- Go back 3 spaces.

Action delayed on AT&T's easements

The Madison County Board tabled a resolution Dec. 18 to allow American Telephone & Telegraph Co. to construct and operate communications lines over, under, along and across county highways.

The resolution provided that AT&T would pay $1,000 for the easements.

Some board members expressed concern that the payment was too low and that the resolution set no expiration on the easements. The company apparently had been granted free easements in the past.

The resolution was tabled for a month to allow the board's right-of-way committee to study the matter further.

Pay increases of 44 cents per hour were approved for 88 supervisory personnel in various county offices and departments. The raises amount to an increase of about 4.5

percent and are retroactive to Dec. 1, start of the 1985-86 year.

In other action, the board:

- Approved reappointment of Eescic Robinson, William Little, Arthur Zahulsky and Carol Wike Nudo to the Madison County Mental Health Board.

- Awarded a $115,740 contract to H & H Steel Building Co. Inc. of Carlinville for construction of a storage building at the county highway department maintenance complex.

- Authorized the board's Central Services and Finance committees to spend up to $93,000 to replace an IBM 4331 computer in the data processing department with a more powerful IBM 4381 computer. The present computer was said to be operating at 90 percent of capacity.

- Authorized the purchase of a Minolta copier for the county clerk's office for $9,565 from Copying Concepts of St. Louis.

McPike honored for new education laws

State Rep. Jim McPike (D-Alton) was guest of honor Thursday at a reception sponsored by the Illinois Education Association's independent political action committee (IPACE). IEA members attended the event in Alton to show appreciation for his role in passing the state's new education reform package.

"Rep. McPike has demonstrated once again he is deeply concerned about our public schools," said Illinois Education Association President Ruth Henderson. "He participated in every aspect of the reform process and proved many times he is an advocate of public education."

McPike, who represents House District 142, was a chief sponsor of the IPACE-backed "51 percent" constitutional amendment proposal, which would have required the state to provide over half of the funding for public school teachers. It would have provided benefits for retired teachers, expanded early childhood education and increased funding for all levels of schools. He serves as House majority leader.

Children alone

Are they safe, able to cope?

Each day, millions of children leave school and go home to empty houses. By necessity, these "latch key" children must be able to function as adults in the home. How many parents are prepared to properly deal with an accident, a tornado warning, a fire, a stranger at the door, or, as in many cases, caring for young children?

The National Crime Prevention Council estimates that from 5 million to 12 million children between the ages of 5 and 13 are home alone at some point of the day. For most of their parents, especially those among the growing number of single parents, child care is not affordable. And, whether by choice or financial necessity, their mothers who have joined the work force, today outnumber those who have not.

But children are at risk when they are home alone, especially in regard to their safety or be victimized, says the National Crime Prevention Council.

Learning self-care is part of growing up. But, what age is appropriate?

Many local police departments use age 8 as a cut-off in determining whether a child is capable of being home alone. Diane Green, program manager for child abuse and neglect intake and treatment unit for the St. Louis County Division of Family Services, said, "If I receive a telephone call, I will talk to the child to make a determination about the child's ability to stay alone. Green said.

"There are many variables to consider," she said. "Is the child caring for siblings? Does the child know how to call 911? Is there a neighbor that the child is in touch with? And a lot depends on the maturity of the child."

"In my opinion, an 8-year-old is too young to be home alone," she said. "And I'm fearful of a child under 10 or 11 being alone for any length of time."

Green said that many times, children themselves are afraid of being alone.

YOU CAN BANK on it!

Q. In the past, you've given some sound advice on family budgeting, but there is one individual you've missed: The person whose income is based on one size and is therefore, variable. Since I just began such a job for the first time, I wonder if you could offer any tips?

A. We apologize for the oversight. We are aware that many Americans do work on a commission basis. If you're just starting out, the most important thing is to be sure to demand a minimum for a while, until you see how your income will generally work out. To build up a margin of safety, so to speak, for times when your commission checks may dwindle, try to set aside some money from each check. And, another key is record keeping. Get in the habit of maintaining some type of records for at least a year (depending on your business, six months may be long enough). Utilizing those records, you should be able to construct a workable budget which should continue to include regular savings — an extremely important asset for anyone working on commission — based on average monthly earnings.

"One of the questions to be asked is whether the child is comfortable with the situation," she said.

And some children simply cannot cope with the responsibilities, she added.

"There are young children who must get themselves off to school because their parents leave early for work," she said. "Some just can't seem to do it. If often they don't make the school bus and they miss school."

The DFS acts on every hotline call, regardless of the nature of the action, "is a judgment call," she said, explaining that no law requires children to be a certain age before they may care for themselves.

In many cases, there's the necessity that both parents work," Green said. "It's not that they're bad parents, who don't want what's best for their children. Day care may not be available and transportation is often a problem." DFS contracts with day-care centers to provide free care for children when their determined age is reached, she said.

The National Crime Prevention Council advises parents to promote self-care skills in children. If children understand why they must be left alone and what they may and may not do, the risk of danger to children and parents will be greatly reduced.

What should children know? A list of "basics" follows:

- Their names and addresses, including city and state.
- The telephone numbers, including zip code.

- How to use both pushbutton and dial telephones to make emergency, 911, calls, local and long distance calls; and to reach the operator.

- To check in with a neighbor or by a phone call to parents immediately after arriving home.

- How to go into the home if a door isajar or a window is broken.

- How to work the home's door and window locks and to lock them when they are at home alone.

- How to leave the home quickly in case of a fire.

- How they should answer when they are home alone, the doorbell and telephone.

- Not to go into anyone else's home without parental permission.

- That they should avoid walking or playing alone.

School consolidation studied

School reorganization committees in both Madison and Macoupin counties recently will consider consolidation of the Staunton, Worden and Livingston districts.

The two reorganization committees met jointly Dec. 18 in Staunton. They were created by the reorganization adopted earlier this year, intended to provide a framework for statewide school reorganization.

The committees are responsible for submitting reorganization plans by June 30, 1986. Proposals will be submitted to voters of affected districts in April 1987.

The Staunton district, which is mostly in Macoupin County but also includes part of Madison County, and the Worden and Livingston districts of Madison County fail to meet the act's guidelines for a minimum 1,500 enrollment.

The combined enrollment of the three would be about 1,500.

The Madison County committee has designated Staunton and Livingston districts as one of three "problem areas" in the county. The others are the Madison-Venice area and the East Alton-Wood River area.

Consolidation of the Staunton, Worden and Livingston districts is, but one of several alternatives which might be considered. They could be combined with other districts, or new districts could be proposed.

Neither reorganization committee has developed specific proposals, and the discussion was general in nature.

Stefan Krcniak, education professor at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, has been retained as a consultant by the Madison County committee.

He told the two committees he has no prejudice in favor of consolidation, but said he believes the committees would have to "make a very personal judgment" to support a recommendation that smaller districts be preserved.

The Macoupin County committee will have its next meeting at 7 p.m. Jan. 15 in Mount Olive. The Madison County committee's next meeting will be at the same time and date.

Open house, party held by center

The Educational Therapy Center (ETC) located in the former Lake School hosted its Christmas banquet and open house event last week.

Students and members of the staff attended the event.

The center is an educational treatment program for behaviorally disordered children from ages eight to 21.

Established in the fall of 1979, ETC is operating two co-ed day treatment programs, one at Lake School and another at Niagara School in East Alton. Residential treatment is offered for boys in Edwardsville, and an education program at the Alton State Hospital.

ETC relocated to Lake School in April 1985. The program in Granite City has a capacity for 38 adolescents and eight pre-adolescent students.

The therapy program is designed for pre-adolescents and pre-adolescents and helps the students to master basic skills they will need to function effectively as adults.

The curriculum satisfies junior and senior high school school requirements through participation in small group and individual instruction, remedial tutoring and individualized educational planning.

THE CHRISTMAS WISH

By Susan E. Doss
Chirstmas is the time that comes once a year,
Having the spirit inside of happiness and cheer.

Everyone gives more attention to one another,
Treating strangers like a sister or brother.

Just to hear the sound of a Christmas song
Makes people feel as if they really belong.

From house to house there's an assortment of lights,
Gazing among the colors of the beautiful sights.

The Christmas trees are trimmed and full of joy,
Bringing back memories as a little girl or boy.

Gifts are a way of showing that special care.
Being unusual or common, they're considered rare.

The birth of Christ is celebrated on that day
As families join together to hope and pray.

The Christmas wish is the thought of Love,
And that could only be sent from Heaven above.

Warrior cagers blitz Madison in tournament

By GREGG OCHOA
Executive Sports Editor

COLLINSVILLE — The smile on Don Deterding's face told the entire story.

Deterding's Granite City Warriors blitzed Madison Friday, 80-58, to advance to the semifinals of the Collinsville Schnucks Holiday Classic at Pekin Gymnasium.

It was the first time in 13 years that a Granite City team had beaten the Trojans.

What's more amazing was the WAY the Warriors won. They outrebounded Madison, 37-21, and rebounded Madison. They outplayed Madison.

"We played tremendous," said Deterding who watched his team improve to 9-0. "I can't say enough about our effort. We played both ends of the floor very well."

It was the Warriors who turned the trick on Madison using quickness, which is a Trojan trademark. But on this day, Granite City left Madison standing and wondering.

Granite City sprinted to a 10-2 lead and the Trojans appeared shell-shocked. They never recovered. The closest Madison could get was three (19-16).

Jamie Hogan was dead-eye from the corner and Tom Taylor controlled the middle as the Warriors led, 21-10, after the first quarter.

"We played in spurts," said Madison coach Rodney Watson.

"You have to give Granite a lot of credit for making us look bad."

Led by Jamie Hogan's 25 points, all five of the Warrior starters scored in double figures. Hogan was 9 for 11 from the field and 7 for 7 from the line.

"Jamie was just fantastic and Tom (Taylor) just owned the boards," Deterding said.

Taylor grabbed 15 rebounds as Granite City held a 34-29 advantage in rebounding for the game.

"They owned the boards," Watson said. "They owned the inside and they turned the transition."

Granite City was able to slow the Trojans' deadly fast break with a pressing defense that at times confused Madison.

MADISON — Valentine 20 (4 assists), Young 4, Jacks 7 (8 rebounds), Marshall 16, Johnson 4, Terrell 5, Walker 2, FG 24, FT 10, PF 19.

GRANITE CITY — Gray 11, T. Hogan 10 (3 steals), H. Hogan 9 (9 rebounds), Taylor 8 (9 rebounds), J. Hogan 25 (5 assists, 3 steals, 7 rebounds), Schaefer 1, Papa 2, FG 30, FT 7, PF 13.

"The press hurt them early," Deterding said. "I don't think they expected that."

Chris Viezer and Taylor combined for 10 points in the second, neutralizing Madison's 6-3 center Eric Jacks. Offensively, Jacks was held to just 7 points (3 of 10 from the floor, 1 of 1 from the line).

Meanwhile, Viezer had 16 and Taylor added 15 points for Granite City.

For Viezer, it was redemption. The senior had been plagued by fouls in the Warriors' opening game against Crystal Lake on Saturday. But Deterding has confidence in him and knew Viezer would break out of it.

"Chris is his own worst enemy," Deterding said. "The less I say to him the better he plays."

Granite City's Tim Hogan was saddled with foul trouble and sat out part of the second and the third quarter. Still, that didn't slow the Warriors down. They picked each other up.

"That's one of the marks of a good team," Deterding said.

The Warriors were also effective running against the Trojans. They converted no less than five fast break baskets off their running game, most of the times the result of Madison turnovers.

"We're going to take it to them," Deterding said. "We can't change our style. That's the way we play."

The Warriors forced 20 Madison turnovers and stole the ball nine times.

In the second quarter, Granite City showed its toughness after an

Warriors move past Gators in 1st round

By GREGG OCHOA
Executive Sports Editor

COLLINSVILLE — It was an early start Thursday morning so if took the Warriors a while to wake up.

The Warriors sleep-walked in the first quarter of their opening round game of the Collinsville Schnucks Holiday Classic. They were fortunate to be ahead at the half. But, in the third quarter, they played to their old form, beating Crystal Lake South, 70-59.

The win upped the Warriors record to 8-0 and is their best start under coach Don Deterding since 1988.

Granite City started the day off with a 7 a.m. practice before settling down to a breakfast of donuts and orange juice. That early start combined with the day-after-Christmas blues, took its toll.

"I noticed in our warmups we were a little listless," Watson said. "Then when we threw the ball in the stands during one of our drills I thought it was going to be one of those days."

The early starting time effected both teams. After 3:30 of play only five points were scored. The Warriors were the first to break through.

However, it was the crisp outside shooting of Crystal Lake's Scotti Przybyla that kept the Gators rolling. They took a 10-4 lead after one quarter.

The Gators came into the game at 6-3 and unbeaten in the Fox Valley Conference. They were indeed a tough foe for the Warriors, the tournament's second seed.

"Early in the game we didn't push the ball up the floor like we should have," Deterding said. "We were just a little bit around. Maybe it was the time factor of the game. I really don't know."

In the second quarter, Granite City heated things up, turning a 4-point deficit into a six point lead.

The Warriors received a big lift from Dan Haug, who came in during the second quarter replacing Chris Viezer at center.

Haug immediately blocked a shot and played aggressive defense under the basket.

"The block might have intimidated them a little," Deterding said.

Granite City's second quarter surge was backed by Joe Gray. He scored 9 of his 13 points in the quarter.

"Tim and Timmy (Hogan) really make the team go offensively," Deterding said. Gray handed out 8 assists. Hogan had 4.

The Warriors were ahead, 35-32, at the intermission. They could have been more, but Granite City had problems at the free throw line. For the game, Granite City was 16 of 22 (72 percent) from the line.

The Warriors' defense started clicking in the third quarter. They forced more Crystal Lake turnovers.

In the fourth quarter, the Warriors started moving the ball better. Tim Hogan, who scored a game-high 24 points, got free for a couple of fast-break baskets.

Granite City increased its lead to 53-40 in the fourth quarter. However, the lead was safe. The Gators kept the pressure on in the beginning of the final quarter.

A key to the Gators success was the way they were able to slow the pace of the game down and Przybyla's ability to break the Warriors press.

"Normally, Joe can really harass the guy bringing the ball up the floor and force a team to do some things they didn't want to do," Deterding said. "But (Przybyla) was able to take care of the ball."

The Gators had four players in double figures, led by Pat Roche's 15 points.

With 2:34 left in the game and the Gators building some momentum, Viezer was able to pull a steal foul for slamming the ball to the court after his fourth personal foul.

Tim Hogan sank the free throws to give Granite City a 68-59 lead. The Warriors had a chance to blow the lead but they were held to just three fast break baskets. Even so, the Gators could never come back.

Granite City was 27 of 56 (48 percent) from the field. Crystal Lake shot 26 of 58 from the floor (44 percent).
